MUCH WORK YET

To Be Done On New Dover And York Beach Line.

Although work cars are running by their own power on nearly every portion of the Dover and York Beach electric road, there still remains much to be done before the cars are put on to accomplish a satisfactory passenger schedule.

The work of putting this road through has been done in an incredibly short space of time, when the quality of the road is considered, as no piece of electric railway in the state surpasses it.

Now that the road is nearing completion, people are naturally anxious to see the cars actually running, and numerous opinions and rumors have been circulated, all of which leave out of the reckoning the enormous amount of work that remains after the track is laid. Therefore all predictions to the effect that a week or two weeks will see everything completed and in good working order are far away from the truth of the matter.

Not for several weeks after passenger service commences can the road be expected to settle down to a regular schedule.

General Manager Meloon states that it is likely that some cars will run over the road by the 20th of June, and that as soon after that as possible the Dover traffic will be handled by bringing passengers over the Kittery and Elliot branch to the P. K. & Y. road.

The sub-grading still remains to be done, and whether the management will decide to run cars while this is going on, as was done in the case of the Elliot road two years ago, is still an undecided point. If they decide to do this, cars will not be run on a very frequent schedule, as this would prevent the work.

The motors for the new cars, which were delayed on the road, arrived at Dover Tuesday and will soon be fitted up.

The transformer to be installed at York Corner has not yet arrived and this will put back the work to some extent. At present the York end of the road is supplied by the P. K. & Y., while the upper end is supplied by a Dover power station.

When the road gets down to business the running time between York and Dover will be forty-five minutes, but for the present one hour will be consumed. The fare has not been settled as yet.

ON THE DIAMOND.

A Little Off.

The Portsmouth Herald says: Somersworth defeated Portland, 15 to 1, at Central park, Dover, on Saturday. Durgy of Colby college pitched for Somersworth.

The Herald is a little "off" on Durgy. He pitched and in good shape, too, as the score shows. He is not a college man, however, but is a member of the Free Press staff, which fact constitutes a liberal education. There are some things better than going to college.—Somersworth Free Press.

They Are Good, But—

The Somersworth men will have seven Somersworth men on the team this summer, a whole team except the battery, which will be Tebbetts and Libby, who are good enough for anybody. What town or city in New Hampshire is there that can show a better lot of home players than Gastonguay, Pugsley, Reeve, Hatch, Casey, Hurd, and Durgy? Several are on college teams, and all are grand good men.—Somersworth Free Press.

How about Newick, Carman, Hanson, Powers, Ladd, Rowe and George Woods?

Many Leagues This Year.

Professional ball players are this season as numerous as and much better than tips on the races. There are now seventeen important professional leagues, and probably ten times as many of the smaller semi-professional and amateur organizations.

The seventeen referred to are the American league, National league, American association, Southern league, Western league, Eastern league, New York State league, New England league, California league, Pacific-Northwestern association, Three-I league, Cotton State league, Texas league, Central league, Kentucky-Tennessee league, Connecticut State league and Virginia-North Carolina league.

These leagues average eight clubs each, which means that 136 aggregations rally at the call of the umpire's "Play ball!" Many of the clubs carry from fifteen to twenty players on the payroll. Others use only twelve to fourteen. The average, however, easily reaches fifteen men to a team.

One hundred and thirty-six teams, using fifteen players each, make a remarkable total of 2,040 ball players. This is figuring on the professional class in league ranks only. There are thousands of semi-professional aggregations who do not come under the head of league players.

Manager Rous'n of the Sanford team has got together a great nine pitcher Pope, one of his slab artists, hails from South Carolina, and is said to be a great thrower.

Newick and Carman will be the battery for Dover against Rochester in their opening game at Central park next Saturday afternoon.

Inquirer—Because a fielder touches a batted ball it is not necessarily an error. If the ball in the judgment of the scorer, is too difficult to field, it should be given a base hit. The question is, did the fielder have a fair chance to dispose of the batsman, and this is for each scorer to decide in his own mind.

Ned Hanlon's Brooklyn team of the National league will be the attraction against the Manchester at Varick park, Manchester, next Monday afternoon, and present indications are that there will be a large crowd in attendance.

AT THE NAVY YARD.

Scott Nelson, machinist in the steam engineering department, is away from duty and has undergone an operation at Concord.

George Manent, leadingman in the steam engineering department, is enjoying a short vacation.

Notices have been posted in the different departments addressed to the men who are connected with the fire department. In the companies of the steamers "Dupont" and "Catawba" there are about eighty men.

Iron work to be installed in the mast head house was started on Thursday under the supervision of Engineer Frank Hoyt.

The model of the brig to be built at this yard, on exhibition in the construction department, is said to have cost nearly one thousand dollars.

Matthew Mullen, for some time fireman in the construction power house, is now in charge of the new gas engine, used for furnace work in the new smith shop.

The United States collier Leonidas arrived today from Baltimore, with 2324 tons of coal for construction.

This morning, fourteen double teams and eighteen men were set to work, unloading the coal.

Three men were borrowed from the yards and docks department.

Six thousand tons of coal in all have been ordered for this yard and about two-thirds is already here. The space for storing it is rather cramped.

The appropriations for some of the departments is under what was expected.

The equipment building is about ready to turn over to the government, by the contractors.

There is some uneasiness among the workmen in several departments over discharges that are thought to be imminent, but The Herald can assure them that the situation is merely what it always is at just this season, the end of the fiscal year, and a furough is to be arranged, to tide over matters until July. There will be plenty of money available then.

"OIL WADS" USED.

Belief That Fraud Was Practised at Lawrence Muster.

It is understood that the award of prizes at the Lawrence muster on June 3 is being delayed by the judges pending an investigation of alleged fraud. Oil spots were seen on the paper directly after the play of the famous Red Jackets of Cambridge, who landed third money with a play of 206 feet, 11 1-2 inches.

It is not believed that any action of the judges will rob Winchendon of first money, but should it be proved that any of the prize winners used oil wads, there may be a shakeup in some of the small prize winners.

The use of oil wads at firemen's musters is not a new game in this line of sport. The small wads get into the machine in some peculiar fashion, and are sure to go down the paper for a good five feet ahead of the small drops of water. They are most effective in a wind, for while the water is being blown into a spray when it breaks the small oil wads go solid for the paper.

They are so small and wet that to the man not on to the tricks of the firemen's musters they would appear to be ordinary drops of water. Chief E. S. Hosmer of Lowell is an old runder of firemen's musters, and was one of the judges at the Lawrence muster. He is well posted on the oil racket.

At the muster in Gardner, last year, oil wads were used by one of the companies. When the company was playing its best, a shower of oil struck the paper. Frank Shattuck, ex-chief of the Gardner fire department, who was one of the judges, saved one of the wads as a souvenir.

SILVER WEDDING.

Mr. and Mrs. Batchelder Remembered By Their Friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren N. Batchelder of Hampton Falls observed their silver wedding on Wednesday afternoon, June 3. The house was finely adorned and a foliage arch was erected above the front door.

Guests were present from Hampton Falls, Seabrook, Kensington, Dover and Somersworth in this state, from Boston, Charlestown, Lexington, Andover, Somerville, Newburyport and Haverhill, Mass.

A large number of presents were bestowed including a variety of silverware, money and valuable linen, a costly chair, paper money, silver and china combined, a single rare and very expensive plate from a relative in Boston, costly and peculiar silk from a relative in New York, and flowers from a florist friend in Lexington.

Ice cream and cake including a bride's loaf, were served. It was a happy occasion.

DOUGLAS WILL PROBATED.

The will of Maria Douglas was proven in solemn form before Probate Judge Louis G. Hoyt, at the office of Judge E. H. Adams, this forenoon. Judge Adams and Lawyer Kelley appeared for the will.

SUNDAY SCHOOL PICNIC.

The Sunday school board of the Methodist church will meet this evening, at the close of the prayer meeting, to make final plans for a Sunday school picnic.

IT MATTERS NOT

How Sick You Are or How Many Physicians Have Failed to Help You.

Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy will Cure You if a Cure is Possible.

Doctors are not infallible and there are many instances where they have decided a case was hopeless and then the patients astonished everyone by getting well and the cause of their cure was Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy. A case in point is that of James Lettuce of Canajoharie, N. Y., who writes:

"Some years ago I was attacked with pain in my back and side that were fearful in the extreme. I could not control my kidneys at all and what came from them was mucous and blood. I was in a terrible state and suffered immensely. A prominent physician of Albany, N. Y., decided that an operation was all that would save me. I dreaded that and commenced to take Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy. I felt better almost instantly. When I had taken about two bottles, the flow from the bladder was much clearer, the pain stopped, and I was saved from the surgeon's knife and am now well."

Dr. W. H. Morse, the famous physician of Westfield, N. J., has this to say of this great medicine:

"I have known it to cure chronic inflammation of the kidneys, where the attending physician pronounced the case incurable."

No form of kidney, liver, bladder or blood disease, or the distressing sicknesses so common to women, can long withstand the great curative power of this famous specific. Its record of cures has made it famous in medical circles everywhere.

It is for sale by all druggists in the New York City at the regular $1.00 size bottles—less than a cent a dose. Sample bottle—enough for trial, free by mail. Dr. David Kennedy Corporation, Rondout, N. Y.

SERVIANS REBEL.

Military Rises And Over- throws Government.

KING ALEXANDER AND QUEEN DRAGA MURDERED.

Soldiers Kill Several Other Prominent Officials Of The Country.

PRINCE KARAGEORGEVITCH ELEVATED TO THE THRONE BY THE INSURGENTS.

New York, by cable from Belgrade, Serbia, June 11.—Sometime between half-past ten o'clock Wednesday night and two o'clock this morning, King Alexander and Queen Draga were assassinated by rebellious soldiers. Prince Nikodem, Premier Markovitch, Ministers Petrovitch and Tudrovich and Gen. Pavlovitch, late minister of war, were also killed.

Prince Karageorgevitch, the son of a rich swine owner, was proclaimed king in Alexander's stead and seems likely to hold the throne without serious opposition. All the men capable of leading the fight against the new monarch were murdered last night.

Reports as to how the tragedy occurred are conflicting. One account states that the soldiers entered the palace and Col. Naumovitch called on King Alexander to abdicate the throne. The king refused and shot Col. Naumovitch on the spot and was himself almost instantly killed.

Another version is that the troops burst into the king's bedchamber and that he shot both the queen and himself.

The rebels have assumed full control of the government, have appointed new ministers and have called a meeting of the national representatives for June 15.

The people of the country appear to approve the action of the soldiers and are apparently well satisfied with their king. There is no display of mourning, even in Belgrade, and both country and city are quiet. There is little fear that the powers of Europe will intervene and the indications are that King Karageorgevitch will retain the throne, to which he was so suddenly elevated, without trouble.

DIES AT NASHUA.

Edward H. Everett, Prominent State Democrat Passes Away.

Nashua, June 11.—Edward H. Everett, during many years a prominent leader of the democracy in New Hampshire, died at his home here this morning of consumption, aged forty-eight years, six months. He was a native of Haverhill, this state. He completed his education at West Point Military Academy. During several years he held an important position with the Concord railroad, and later conducted a successful drug business in this city. He was conspicuous on the stump in New Hampshire during the campaigns preceding the election of Cleveland, and in the Bryan campaign of 1896. He leaves a widow and two children.

RAIN STOPPED IT.

Terrible Downpour Probably Prevented Fight At Morenci.

Phoenix, Ariz., June 11.—A cloud burst has intervened to delay the crisis in the strike situation at Morenci, Ariz., where thousands of armed men are threatening trouble with the city authorities. A report has reached here that the downtown has been inundated and neighboring camps and towns toward nine men. Official advice states that a mob of Italians and Armenians charged the guards who surrounded the milling plant of the De Beers Copper company, burned them and took possession of the mill, while another mob of a thousand Italians is now menacing the whole copper camp.

GIVES HIMSELF UP.

Ralph P. Coleman Surrenders To The Lawrence Police.

Lawrence, Mass., June 11.—Ralph P. Coleman, wanted on a charge of murder in causing the death of Frank K. Connell, of Lowell in this city last Friday night, gave himself up to the police this morning and was held without bail for a preliminary hearing next Tuesday morning. He pleaded not guilty and was represented by Colonel John P. Sweeney.

By advice of his counsel, Coleman refused to say whether or not he was with Connolly on the night of the murder. He told the police, however, where he had been since he left Lawrence and his story corroborates the reports which had been received as to his whereabouts. He remained in Lawrence Saturday and slept in the South Lawrence woods Saturday evening. Sunday he went to North Andover and remained there all day on the outskirts where he was seen by several who knew him. At that time, however, it had not been made public that Coleman was the man who was wanted for the Connolly murder. From North Andover he went to Salem and Monday night he spent in Beverly. He also went to Lynn and Boston. Yesterday he came back to Lawrence and went to his brother's home in Methuen last night. He and his brother decided that it would be best for him to give himself up under the circumstances and consequently the brothers came together to the police station here this morning and the fugitive gave himself up to Sergeant Schenck. He was immediately booked and locked in a cell. He looked dejected and careworn. He was later positively identified by George Barnfield as the man who accosted him late Friday night on Essex street and asked him for tobacco, afterwards saying: "My name is Coleman and I have just put two men out of business."

CAPT. EWEN'S STORY.

He Was Offered $5000 To Help Acquitt Curtis Jett.

Jackson, Ky., June 11.—Sensational disclosures made by Capt. B. J. Ewen the principal witness against Curtis Jett, has thrown Jackson into a state of nervous excitement.

Capt. Ewen detailed a story of attempted bribery, when several days ago he was offered $5000 and the money counted out to him if he would agree to alter his testimony so that it would not incriminate Jett. The offer, he said, was made at his home and those who made it gave him the option of accepting it or being killed. He testified against Jett.

Ewen held another conference today with Inspector Hines regarding the matter, and sensational developments are expected.

The crowd at the court house was much larger today. The soldiers brought Curtis Jett and Thomas White from the jail, and guarded them while in court. Jett was as confident as ever and White more despondent. White's mother is with him and constantly begging him to tell the whole truth.

The first witness today, Ezekiah Combs, swore that he saw Jett and White together a few minutes before the shooting of Marcus in the court house. He saw White move toward the side door of the court house and make a motion to Jett to follow him. He did not see Jett again till after the assassination.

Prince Landrum, deputy circuit clerk, testified to scenes about the court house at the time of the murder.

RAMPANT WATERS.

They Are Slowly Receding From East St. Louis.

East St. Louis, June 11.—"Not one person has been drowned by the inundation of this city," said Chief of Police Purdy today. "Several persons have fallen from roofs and from overturned boats and been drowned by accident but not a life has been lost by the inundating water. If all the dikes surrounding East St. Louis were to break at once today there would be no loss of life and the city would not be flooded in the residential district, while there would not be more than two feet of water in the business portion. The dikes are more than sufficient to protect the city from damage and the crisis is over. Martial law has not been proclaimed. We are amply able to preserve order in the ordinary police manner and the soldiers are under my direct orders and are simply doing police duty."

East St. Louis, which has for a week been thrown in a turmoil, is rapidly regaining normal conditions in the business districts not under water.

LAKE STEAMER SERVICE.

The regular service on Lake Winnepesaukee by the steamer Mt. Washington of the Boston and Maine line begins this week. Until the summer schedule of train service goes into effect, June 22, the steamer will make only one round trip over the lake daily, touching at Alton Bay, The Wells, Bear Island, Long Island and Centre Harbor.

EXETER EVENTS.

Commencement Day At The High School.

MEETING OF ACADEMY ATH- LETIC ASSOCIATION.

Death Of Mrs. Susan E. Thurston At Age Of Seventy-Five.

THINGS SAID AND DONE IN OUR NEIGH- BORING COUNTY SEAT.

Exeter, June 11.

The second of the week's commencement exercises were carried out this afternoon and evening, when the members of the senior class of the Exeter High school bade adieu to their alma mater and joined the throng of the school's alumni. The class being so much smaller than usual, the graduation exercises were held in the school building this afternoon at three o'clock. A class of five young men received diplomas, as follows: Joseph W. Tuck, Willard I. Rowe, Walter S. McNulty, Horace Blodgett and Harry Luce.

The parts were thus given: Salutatory, Mr. Blodgett; valedictory, Mr. Rowe; prophecies, Mr. Tuck; essay, "The Value of a High School Education," Mr. Luce; essay, "Success Through Failure," Mr. McNulty. The exercises were interspersed with singing. The diplomas were awarded by the chairman of the school board.

This evening's festivities at the town hall formed a fitting climax to the day's exercises. The seminary's colors of yesterday had been removed and in their places were substituted the school's colors of blue and white. The floral decorations were practically the same as yesterday. At the rear door of the hall hung a huge American flag. At the background of the stage was another American flag bearing the figures, "03."

From eight to nine o'clock the seniors, assisted by the members of the faculty, received. During this time a pleasing concert program of five numbers was rendered by Nelson's orchestra of Newburyport. The grand march was led by Principal and Mrs. Albion Barbank and dancing followed until midnight. The dance order contained sixteen numbers and four extras. Fruit punch was served. The floor was in charge of Horace Blodgett, '03, and he was assisted by Walter S. McNulty, '03, E. Carl Smith, '04, and Gilbert E. French, '05.

The class officers this year were: President, Willard I. Rowe; vice president, Joseph W. Tuck; secretary and treasurer, Harry Luce.

Of this year's class Mr. Rowe will next fall enter Phillips Exeter and

FORTUNE TELLING

Does not take into consideration the one essential to woman's happiness—womanly health. There is many a woman whose future seems absolutely unclouded who is marked by her own condition for future disappointment and distress.

The woman who neglects her health is neglecting the very foundation of all good fortune. For without health, love loses its lustre and gold is but dross.

Womanly health may be retained or regained by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It establishes regularity, dries the drains which weaken women, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness. It makes weak women strong, sick women well.

Dr. Pierce offers $500 reward for women who cannot be cured of the above diseases. His "Prescription" has been so successful in curing thousands of cases in the past third of a century that he makes this remarkable offer to show his confidence.

"I have taken six bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription," writes Miss M. E. Cole of Omaha, Neb., "and two bottles of the 'Pleasant Pellets' as you advised me. I am now strong and healthy and my health is as good as I had not had for over three years, and I am taking your medicine. I think you've much to your credit and I would like to tell you so."

"Favorite Prescription" has the testimony of thousands of women to its complete cure of womanly diseases. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets clear the complexion and sweeten the breath.

Mr. Luce New Hampshire college. The other three young men are undecided as to their future course.

One of the most important meetings of the year of the Phillips Exeter Athletic association was held last evening. William E. Leavitt, '04, of Hampton, and Robert L. Thaxter, '05, of Portland, Me., were elected manager and assistant manager of next spring's baseball nine. Robert E. Steiner, Jr., '04, of Montgomery, Ala., was elected manager and Leon Godchaux, '05, of New Orleans assistant manager of the track team. Phillip H. Hathaway, '04, of Brookline, Mass., was elected tennis manager and Newton Cox, '04, of Terre Haute, Ind., was chosen golf manager. An amendment was made to the constitution, whereby a member of the golf team may wear a gray sweater with the letters "E. G. T."

ABOUT PEOPLE YOU MAY KNOW.

William Dean Howells, who is at his summer home at Kittery Point, has issued a volume containing three stories which deal with the supernatural. It bears the significant title "Questionable Shapes." The last two stories are significant documents in the present discussion concerning personal immortality. They show how shrewd observers are concerned with the all important question that will not down in spite of the assurance given by certain scientists that belief in immortality is merely a species of egotism, in spite of the comfort found by some in the reflection that the personal immortality of the greatest or wisest man is found only in the survival of his beneficent influences on mankind at large. These stories not only entertain for the moment; they incite deep and profitable examination of spiritual conditions and possibilities.

Society in Washington and among naval people generally will be interested in the action begun in New York by Mrs. Belle Bemis Barber for a divorce from her husband, Dr. George Holcomb Barber, a surgeon in the navy, stationed at Coaster's Harbor Island, Narragansett Bay.

Judge Clark, in the supreme court on Tuesday granted an order to serve the summons and complaint on Dr. Barber by publication. Mrs. Barber complains of her husband's conduct at Annapolis, New York and elsewhere and names a young woman who, according to her counsel, is related to a prominent naval officer and was one of her bridesmaids.

Mrs. Barber is a daughter of Mrs. Laura J. Willis and was married in 1895 at the home of her sister, Mrs. Edward M. Wight, in Washington. During the Spanish-American war Dr. Barber was on board the Glacier. His grandmother left him $50,000 and the old family residence.

He sued his wife in the superior court at New Haven because of her alleged intemperate habits, but in the trial in March, 1900, Mrs. Barber won the verdict.

Rev. Edward A. Rand, rector of the Church of the Good Shepherd of Watertown, Mass., and a son of Portsmouth, was one of the after-dinner speakers at the annual reunion of the Fifth Massachusetts Regiment association, which was held in Watertown on Wednesday.

Bishop Denis M. Bradley of the Catholic diocese of New Hampshire, reached on Thursday the nineteenth anniversary of his consecration to the bishopric. There were pertinent ceremonies at the cathedral in Manchester.

George Fred Williams of Boston, the noted orator and free silverite, was a visitor in York the other day on business connected with the heirs of the Norton estate.

Miss Alice Roosevelt, the president's daughter, arrived in Beaton today where she will remain for several weeks as the guest of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George C. Lee of Chestnut Hill. As to her intention of visiting York Harbor this summer nothing publicly definite is known.

WE KNOW THEM.

Perhaps one of the most amusing experiences that falls to the lot of the weekly newspaper editor is the frequent receipt of letters from individuals who stop their paper because certain legitimate news has been published that does not quite please them, (says the York Transcript.) For instance, the Transcript published the story of a sad affair last week that aroused the ire of one family at least, and yet it was a perfectly faithful account. Had the Transcript been guilty of glossing over the affair and defrauding its readers of the real facts, what excuse could we offer the public for failing to fulfill its contract in furnishing news?

Years of experience has taught us that a paper which seeks to evade truth and hobbles to every whim and conceit of individuals and continually endeavor to cheat the public of legitimate news in order not to antagonize a single person is not worth the confidence of its readers, and if not worthy of their confidence, certainly undeserving of their patronage. In the long run we prefer to be true to the newspaper ideal rather than sacrifice the paper to the mean and despicable purpose of shielding offenders of law and decency.

The occasional loss of a subscriber or two is nothing compared to the ignominy that comes from failing to realize our true mission in a community, and we have also learned that the loss of one subscriber means the gaining of several others who can appreciate a paper whose first principle and duty to the public is to furnish the news.

The other class who cannot bravely bear the punishment of publicity and are cowards in the face of truth should form a community by themselves where the repression of truth will be more congenial to their pursuits and purposes.

JOHNSTON—NEWLANDS.

Miss Janet Newlands, second daughter of Senator Francis G. Newlands of Nevada, was married very quietly on Wednesday morning in Washington, to Dr. William B. Johnston, a son of the late Dr. W. W. Johnston of that city, grandson of the late Charles Ladd of Portsmouth, and whose summer home is at Jamaica Island in our harbor.

The wedding occurred in St. Albans, a picturesque little Episcopal church near the summer home of the Newlands, and was performed by Rev. George C. Bratenahl, the pastor.

Only a family party attended, including Senator and Mrs. Newlands, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Johnston, the latter a sister of the bride, Miss Frances Newlands, Dr. and Mrs. Van Rensselaer. A wedding breakfast was served at Woodley, and immediately after Dr. and Mrs. Johnston left Washington for the North. They will return in about a month and will reside on K street, where Dr. Johnston has established himself in his father's house.

The marriage is the culmination of a romance began when Miss Edith Newlands became engaged to Dr. Johnston's eldest brother, Charles Johnston. The daughters of Senator Newlands are the grandchildren of the late Senator Sharon and the three sisters inherited the bulk of his fortune. In selecting the sons of Dr. Johnston, they were actuated only by love, as both young men have no patrimony and have only just begun life on their own account. Charles Johnston is a professor in St. Paul's Episcopal school near Concord and gets but a modest salary. Each of the Misses Newlands has an annual income of nearly $35,000.

The bride is a niece of Mrs. Henry S. Pritchett, wife of the president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, as Mrs. Pritchett is a sister of Senator Newlands.

CHOSEN AGAIN.

Lady Henry Somerset Re-elected President Of World's W. C. T. U.

Geneva, Switzerland, June 11.—At today's session of the convention of the World's Woman's Temperance union Lady Henry Somerset was re-elected president of the organization, and Mrs. Lillian M. N. Stevens of Portland, Me., was re-elected vice president-at-large.

Mrs. Clara Parrish Wright of Paris, Ill., was elected superintendent of the young woman's branch.

ENTHUSIASTIC OVER THEM.

Architects who have seen the full set of plans from the office of Grant, Goodhue & Ferguson, for the rebuilding of West Point, are most enthusiastic over them. Besides the drawings by the firm, the assistance of Olmsted, the landscape man, was called in, and that of other experts. One man, who ought to know, decried, they were in finish, etc., probably the most beautiful single set of plans ever prepared in this country.

FRIDAY, JUNE 12, 1903.

WE WILL EXTEND IT.

President Roosevelt's trip through the West has dispelled every doubt, if any doubt really existed of his nomination and election in 1904. That he is immensely popular with the people has been proven beyond question and that the people will insist on his being placed at the head of the republic ticket next year is a foregone conclusion.

Mr. Roosevelt owes his popularity to his own honesty, frankness and courage. He has demonstrated that he has the backbone to defend the rights of the people against any and all opponents. He fears the great money kings no more than he fears the humblest citizen. He has persistently refused to pay homage to the leaders of his own party and by so doing has forced them to yield to him. He himself is one of the people and with them he has chosen to cast his lot. For this reason the people will make him, for four years more, the highest official (America has no rulers) of the greatest republic the sun ever shown upon.

Theodore Roosevelt may have made some mistakes since the death of President McKinley placed him at the head of our government, but we do not recall any at this moment. As a diplomat, he has shown himself to be superior to the wily rulers of Europe and as a statesman he is worthy to rank with the greatest America has produced. He is a man who never goes ahead until he is sure he is right, but he is one who sees the right course instinctively and follows it persistently. He does not even bow to public opinion when he is convinced that public opinion is wrong.

It would be hard to find another man so well qualified to discharge the duties which devolve upon the president. It would be still harder to find a man who has the interests of the people so thoroughly at heart and who has the courage to fight for them against foes without and within. Therefore, we are going to extend Mr. Roosevelt's lease of the White House.

PENCIL POINTS.

Every time President Baer opens his mouth he says something foolish.

Alfred Austin has written a heroic play, but the public persists in mistaking it for a farce comedy.

It is announced that the Venezuelan rebellion is ended, but another will probably break out next week.

If King Edward comes to America he will learn that there is plenty of room for England in Uncle Sam's vest pocket.

Through their agent, Mr. Rockefeller, the American people have given a check for $500 to the Western food sufferers.

Dave Hill is a man who, after years of effort, has succeeded in winning sufficient recognition to get himself laughed at.

We imagine the man who writes of the evils of smoking turns out his moral essays with the stem of a pipe between his teeth.

Occasionally some foreigner invents a valuable machine, but an American usually has to show him how to make it work.

Whether it does any good to pray for rain or not may be a question open to argument, but it is pretty certain that it doesn't do any harm.

The number of exploits credited to Buffalo Bill by the writers of cheap literature would indicate that Col. Cody has had a continuous existence since the days of Solomon.

"The Light That Failed" is being brought prominently to the front again, presumably for the purpose of proving to the public that Kipling once wrote a good story.

"It begins to look as if Mr. Edison contemplated becoming a great capitalist rather than a great inventor," says the Washington Star. What's the reason he can't be both.

A certain religious sect in this country forbids its adherents to place telephones in their homes. Some people will persist in throwing paper wads beneath the wheels of progress.

If it were as easy to become as great as the graduation essays make it appear the top round of the ladder of fame would break beneath the weight of the celebrities.

Japan is trying hard to become a world power, but the Japanese should remember the fate which has always finally overtaken the yellow people when they have tried conclusions with the whites.

NOT "RACE SUICIDE," BUT RACE SALVATION.

More children, is it they are crying? Why, there are more now than the world gives decent attention, and they are left to crowd their way upward as noxious little weeds in the social garden.

Not more, but fewer children and better born and bred—an increase in quality not in quantity of human kind, is the need of the United States and of every country at the present time.

And yet all over the land there has recently gone up a great hue and cry, the condemning echo of which has reached wherever a woman could be found who is devoting time and talent to any other work than child bearing. The newspapers got out their largest headlines with "race suicide," announcements about "race suicide." For the president of a great commonwealth and the president of a great university, it seems, through the vision with which they looked on the world, had taken sudden alarm because marriages are fewer and families smaller than they used to be.

Now, it is true that the other side had a hearing. And the first ringing reply that should be sent reverberating back to the unquiet alarmists, is this: The American woman is responsible for the present situation. What of it? All honor and glory to her that she has dared to take this stand.

What has brought it about? This. Her higher education has given her a clearer insight into the science of beginning. Her economic freedom has given her the courage of her convictions. She is now able to make her own terms of matrimony and of motherhood, and she will no longer consent to become a partner in the creation of a new life that must be begun under adverse circumstances. She knows her duty to the race too well and she has come to believe that the child that can not be rightly born ought not to be born at all.

Do not call it the suicide of the race. It is the salvation of the race! Suppose that it does mean smaller families. Thinking people today are coming to believe in them. John Stuart Mill, it was, who said, "Better have one and that one a lion than have a dozen jackasses."

I know that this will be considered revolutionary teaching from some standpoint. Church and state, since time began have taught the contrary, and only the very recent findings of science have begun to whisper the newly discovered truth that it is not the greatest thing in the world to multiply indefinitely, in haphazard fashion, human beings who shall live and suffer and die here.

Some day public opinion will demand that the same economy be applied to the increase in the family as to the increase in the expenditures for the household. The parents whose income will not properly provide for another baby, will not be countenanced in having it. For it will be considered that they have no more right to bring the child into the world than they would have to go into debt for a piano or a new parlor suite, or to indulge in any other unwarranted extravagance, for which they know beforehand they can not pay.

As to what constitutes proper provision for a child, there will be room, of course, for a latitude of opinion. One thing is certain; the definition is a much wider one than it ever was before. Today it includes opportunities for mental, moral and physical growth. It means not only the assurance of good food and good clothing, but good education as well. Indeed, it is not too much to say that every boy and girl ought to have a college training. It is a fearful thing to bestow life without bestowing the possibility of living it to the fullest and highest development.

The college woman has not failed to learn her lesson in sociology and political economy. It has taught her these things, and at her door, particularly, is laid the charge of revolt against the old order. They say that she is not rushing into matrimony and motherhood. To be sure she is not! Her education would have been in vain if it had not taught her to look before she leaps. It is not, however, that Greek and Latin and mathematics have killed the maternal instinct. Dear, no! The college girl loves babies as much as any other girl does, and her much blamed studies, far from destroying that feeling, have on the contrary made the maternal instinct so much the more keen that the educated woman demands higher qualifications for the father of her children. If she does not marry it is not necessarily that her heart has been hardened beyond that of her less intellectual sister.

Perhaps she may not find men her equals in morals and decency, and so, fit to marry. Too many men are not worthy to be husbands and fathers, and women are making that discovery. College women have simply taught their hearts the wisdom that it is better not to marry at all than not to marry well.

Always as he rises in the scale of human development the requirements of the individual increase as his evolution towards a higher plane progresses. Living costs more for a civilized man than it does for a savage. The Caucasian would starve on what would keep a Mongolian in comfort, and the intelligent American citizen could not exist on the meagre stipend on which the Italian immigrant thrives. No, just what education and evolution have done in the case of races and nations, it has also been doing for women. It has been going on, of course, all through the ages, but it was during the nineteenth century that it took place at the most rapid rate. What happened during the last twenty-five years, made of the American woman a new creature with an emancipated mind and will.

She crossed the college threshold and from the vantage ground of education she looked out on a new horizon. Arts and sciences and professions let down the barriers to admit her. In the space of a generation she had bridged such a chasm as separates a lower from a higher civilized race. Her necessities have kept pace in direct ratio with her brain unfoldment. She is a more complex human than she was, and her demands on existence have multiplied. She can no more be content with what satisfied her grandmother than the American can be content with what satisfies the Chinaman. Her nature reaches out in a score of different ways that call for recognition. The chance for soul growth she will not be denied. All of which means that her standard of living has been raised. Next, with the improvement in her own condition, naturally her ideals for her children have grown apace. What she needs for her best development they will need for theirs. If they can not have it, she reasons, it were cruel to bring them into existence, where the denial of necessities will make them suffer and shrink to something short of the soul proportions for which they were planned.—A College Woman in Vim.

SAVING THEIR PENNIES.

Portsmouth boys are busily engaged in earning and saving all the pennies, nickels and small change they possibly can, for Sig. Sautelle's new big twenty-five cent two-ring railroad circus, menagerie, royal Roman hippodrome and historical wild west is scheduled to appear in this city, Friday afternoon and evening, June 19.

Mr. Sautelle has a standing challenge this year that his is the largest, grandest and best two-ring circus in all the world. He backs up this assertion by a free display in the streets on the day of exhibition, which is considerably over a mile in length and contains absolutely more glistering, enchanting, scintillating, processional wonders, than all others combined. Subsequently he presents a peerless performance, which is truly a world of marvels in three hours. Among the features are to be found the only riding lion in the world and a sixty-three horse and pony act, either of which is worth many times the admission fee. Among the performers are to be found born heroes of the gymnastic world in feats of skill and personal prowess, renowned riders of both sexes, eminent aerial artists, leapers, tumblers, educated animals and the most ludicrous of ludicrous clowns to be seen in no other show. Don't fail to attend the performance in Portsmouth.

THE KIND THAT GOES.

It is announced that Finley P. Dunne, the Chicago humorist, author of the "Dooley" papers, has been engaged by the Harpers to write for them at a salary of $40,000 a year. In recent years the publishers have joined the circuses in recognizing the advertising value of big figures, but if Mr. Dunne gets only a quarter of what he is advertised to get he will be one of the best paid literary workers of any age. At this rate an author may some time be able to command as much money as a crack first-baseman, a successful jockey or a union bricklayer. Many people might say that "Mr. Dooley's" utterances are not literature, and that if they were they would not command such a good market. But they are the kind of literature that "goes."—Manchester News.

ALASKA REFRIGERATORS.

Read About Them.
ALASKA CIRCULATION.

The ice rests on a corrugated galvanized iron rack, which is so constructed as to leave an air passage under the iron. The warm air in the provision chamber rises through the flues at each end of the ice chamber, comes in contact with the ice at the central opening in the lid flue, becomes colder and drops under the ice rack, where all moisture is condensed, and falls through the central opening under the ice into the provision chamber, cold and dry. No other system keeps the air so long in contact with the ice as the ALASKA does, consequently the ALASKA does its work more thoroughly than any other refrigerator.

GETTING READY.

Company B Boys Preparing For The Annual Encampment.

Already the members of Company B are engaged in packing their mess cases and a general assortment of articles which are destined to make the camp life more comfortable as to be found within these massive chests when all is ready for the start. In the private knapsacks may be found a few packages of tobacco and, as a general thing, an extra corn cob pipe is taken along as well as the regulation army blanket wound about the body in a most convenient fashion.

The encampment is looked forward to by the larger portion of the militia men for several months in advance. Many of them are inclined to look upon the matter as a picnic, and the hard drilling as an excellent form of exercise. The men return at the end of the week tired, but happy in the thought that another such meeting will again occur at the end of the year.

CAME TOO LATE.

Rain Hardly In Season To Save The Hay Crop.

That the little rain came too late to save the hay crop is the generally expressed opinion of the farmers who came into the city yesterday. The crop is variously estimated at one-fourth to two-thirds the average.

The drouth has dried up the pastures so badly that some of the farmers are feeding hay, and others have cut green grass to keep their stock from going hungry.

The hoed crops have been injured more by the frosts than by the drouth. The ground has been so dry that the seed has not sprouted, and the garden stuff is expected to come up now that it has got a little wetting.

BULLETIN OF PUBLIC LIBRARIES

The first number of a series of bulletins issued by the New Hampshire state library trustees has just been issued. The bulletin refers to the act of the legislature abolishing the library commissioners of the state, under whose auspices the publication has previously been issued, but states that the trustees of the state library will continue the publication of the Bulletin under the same policy heretofore pursued. To conform to present conditions, the name of the publication will bear the name of "Bulletin of the New Hampshire Public Libraries." Its old heading, it will be remembered, was "Bulletin of the New Hampshire Library Commission."

LOBSTERS INCREASING.

Many Small Ones Are Found Along the Maine Coast.

The United States fish commission schooner Grampus has arrived at Portland, after its planting of 1,500,000 lobster fry in Casco bay.

Around Wood Island and Kennebunkport more small lobsters, about two and three inches long, are being found than at any time before in the history of the place. These were grown from the fry planted in 1901-2. The Grampus will sow 3,000,000 fry in the bays along the coast, principally about Boothbay.

LAST WEEK AT BOSTON THEATRE.

The fall of the curtain on the last act of The Defender at the Boston theatre Saturday evening of this week will have a double significance.

It will mean not only the end of the three weeks engagement of that merry monarch of musical plays in the New England metropolis, but also the end of the regular dramatic season in New England's largest and ever popular playhouse. This is the Boston theatre's forty-ninth season, the eleventh hour of the first half century of its existence. For the last two years that history has been associated with and identified with Lawrence McCarty, who in the summer of 1901 leased the theatre from Eugene Tompkins, and who ever since then has conducted it with the utmost success and prosperity. This season as last the attractions booked and played at the Boston theatre have included some of the very newest, biggest and best of the New York and London productions. They have also comprehended some perennial favorites.

Inviting and seductive as has been this operatic and dramatic feast, the bookings for next season seem even more attractive. Hall Caine's masterpiece, The Christian, will open the theatre Monday evening, August 24, and Edward J. Morgan will play the role of John Storm. This will be his last appearance in The Christian, prior to his starring tour in a new play Liebler and company's magnificent production of Edward Harrigan's new play, Under Cover, comes next in order, on August 31, for a fortnight's engagement. It illustrates life on the East Side of New York city, somewhat after the style of The Mulligan Guards. Harrigan and Hart's most famous creation. Other sterling attractions will be The Wizard of Oz, Drink, the big London melodrama, by Charles Warner and his English company, The Suburban, another of New York's big record-breaking successes; Charles Frohman's Drury Lane production of Bets of Friends; Checkers, Andrew Mack in Colleen Bawn; Chauncey Olcott in a new play, The Old Homestead, Quincy Adams Sawyer, Way Down East, in Old Kentucky and the Bostonians, together with the annual fortnight's engagement of grand opera, this time under the direction of Heinrich Conrad who succeeds Maurice Grau as the head of the Metropolitan Opera house organization.

A GREAT TRUTH.

How It Has Spread From Home to Home in Portsmouth.

In every part of Portsmouth, in the homes of the wealthy, in the humble abode of the man of toil, his now a well known fact, a great truth, that Doan's Kidney Pills have brought more comfort to backache sufferers and cured more sick kidneys than any medicine of modern times.

Mrs. Robert C. Anderson of 12 Warren street, says: "I had a great deal of trouble with my kidneys until I used Doan's Kidney Pills. I became interested in an advertisement I saw in a newspaper about them. I went to Phibrick's pharmacy on Congress street and procured a box. At the time I had distressing dizziness, lightness in my head, lameness in the small of my back, and pain that almost prostrated me. After the treatment I was perfectly free from every inconvenience."

FARM AND GARDEN

THE DAIRY BARN.

Some Suggestions For Securing Thoroughly Sanitary Conditions.
Two things almost universally lacking in dairy barns are light and pure air. These are easily obtained, and, although absolutely essential to the health of the herd and the economical production of clean milk, they are rarely appreciated. The second out shows a dairy barn containing enough vices to make a man's hair curl. These are in striking contrast with others which have been pointed and seen throughout the state. If a barn is already built and has insufficient light more windows can easily be provided. There should be from three-fourths to one and a half square feet of glass for every linear foot of outside wall in a dairy barn.

KING SYSTEM OF VENTILATION.
Fresh air is carried between joists overhead to center of barn, foul air drawn out from floor by four large ventilators carried above roof causing a continuous change of air without creating a draft on the cows. Ventilator shown at A.

Many barns are not provided with any system of ventilation whatever, as but few dairymen realize that pure air is just as essential to the economic production of untainted milk as is the feed a cow consumes. Digestion and assimilation, like the burning of coal in a stove, are processes of combustion. The store may be filled with coal, but if the drafts are kept tightly closed the coal will not burn, as sufficient oxygen is not provided. Neither can a cow's feed be properly digested and assimilated without an abundance of oxygen, and unless this is supplied a great waste of food as well as impaired health of the cow will result.

Much has been said about the number of cubic feet of air space that should be allowed for a cow, but this is of little consequence in comparison with the more important question of ventilation or change of air. In order not to get a greater degree of impurity in the air than is permissible with good results each cow should be supplied with 3500 cubic feet of air per hour. The size of the ventilating flues to be provided will depend upon the number of cows in the stable. About four square feet is a good size for a ventilating flue, and if so constructed as to cause the air to travel 300 feet in minute this will furnish ventilation for twenty cows. Two flues this size would be sufficient for forty cows, and five would be required for the cows.

To be sanitary a dairy barn should be whitewashed at least once a year. A farmer with a few boards laid across at irregular intervals, with hay hanging through, and with the sides in no better condition cannot be properly whitewashed. The center should be tight, excluding all dust and chaff from above, and sides smooth, thus affording a firm surface to which the whitewash can cling.

It is not necessary to oil the barn with surfaced lumber—in fact, the whitewash will adhere better if the surface is not too smooth. The boards must, however, be reasonably clean before the whitewash is applied; otherwise it will be of little use, for it will soon shell off with the filth, and besides this, with supply covered is not repaid.

A cement floor is the most sanitary for a cow, and when put down it should be left rough under the float to prevent the cows from slipping. An objection often made to cement floors is that they are cold in winter, but as the temperature in a dairy barn should never get below 40 degrees F. this objection is largely overcome if the cows are properly bedded. When a plank floor is used it must be renewed as fast as it wears or puts out. W. J. Fraser, Illinois Experiment Station.

A Good All Around Tomato.
One of the very best all around tomatoes is the Dwarf Champion. It is a smooth, handsome, fairly early and productive kind, but its great merit from the busy farmer's point of view, is that it makes a neat, compact bush, holding up the fruit and keeping it round and clean without help of a mulch or trellis. It begins shortly after the earliest kinds and ripens most of its fruit before frost.

TO PREVENT SWARMING.

A Simple Plan Practiced by Minnesota Bee Keepers.

A plan to prevent swarming, practiced by the bee keepers in this locality, seems to be exceedingly simple and successful, and I give it as follows, as a Minnesota correspondent of the American Bee Journal.

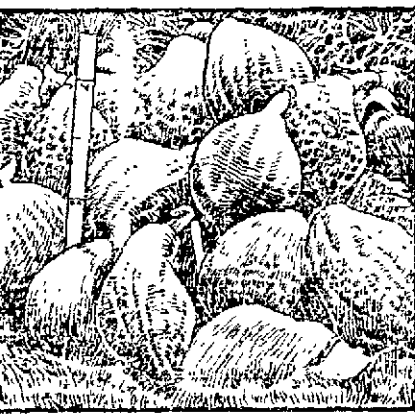

One live in general use is the ordinary eight frame. As soon as the bees appear to be crowded, or show disposition to throw out a swarm, a hive filled with combs or foundation is placed on the old stand. Two frames of brood and the queen are removed from the old hive and placed in the center of the new. If any queen cells are discovered on the combs, they are destroyed. A queen excluder is placed over the new hive, and the old one, after the combs have been carefully inspected and royal cells destroyed, is placed on top. All ingress and exit from the old hive are down and through the new one, which the bees will immediately fill with honey and brood. As soon as the brood is hatched from the old combs, there being no further eggs laid, the bees clean out and fill with honey.

The process of placing new hives under old ones continues all season, in many cases as many as four or five hives being stacked one above the other, the queen excluder being always kept next to the parent colony. If this plan is followed, there is little or no trouble about swarming, and less about queenless colonies. This, of course, refers to the production of extracted honey, but it certainly produces a strain of bees that are little inclined to swarm.

Selected Varieties of Squash.

Early Prolific Marrow.—The earliest variety of squash of any market value. Vines strong and productive. Fruit medium in size; color orange red; quality fair. A good fall variety, selling well in the markets until the later and better varieties appear.

Essex Hybrid.—Shape similar to the Turban. Shell hard; color light yellow.

WANTED HUBBARD SQUASH.

low. Flesh thick, dry and excellent quality. Quite productive. A desirable fall and early winter variety.

Warren.—Very similar to the Essex Hybrid except in outer appearance, the shell being warty and deep orange in color.

Hubbard.—The leading sort for winter use. Shell hard, making it a fine keeper and shipper. Flesh dry and fine in quality.—F. W. Kane, New Hampshire.

How to Cure Alfalfa.

The leaves of alfalfa contain nearly four times as much protein as the stems. Every effort, then, should be made to cure the alfalfa in such a way as to save all the leaves possible. When alfalfa has made a slow growth and at the time of cutting the ground and weather are dry there is no difficulty in curing. Often under these conditions it is safe to rake within a few hours after mowing and stack a few hours after the alfalfa has been put in the windrows. When alfalfa has made a rapid growth and is rank and succulent and the weather and ground are damp the problem of curing is a difficult one. It is easy to dry the leaves, but the stems will contain much moisture after the leaves are so dry. Alfalfa hay should become so dry before stacking that when a handful of stems are twisted together no water can be squeezed out.

There is usually no difficulty in curing any but the first crop. When the conditions for curing the first crop are unfavorable we have usually found the most practicable methods to be to cut the alfalfa early in the morning after the dew is off, allow it to barely wilt in the swath, then rake and before night put in narrow, tall cocks. After the dew is off the next morning and the surface of the ground has become dry we open these cocks carefully so as not to shatter off the leaves. If the weather is favorable the hay may be stacked in the afternoon, if not, we rework carefully and repeat treatment until the hay is properly cured.—H. M. Cottrell, Kansas.

Loss of Phosphoric Acid.

Apparently one of the hardest things for a stockman to understand is that where live animals are sold from the farm the great material drain is in phosphoric acid. The living ox is mostly water. In each 1000 pounds of his weight there will be found on the average 600 pounds of water, 27 of nitrogen, 2 of only of potash, 21 of lime and 19 of phosphoric acid. What becomes of the potash which the ox consumes in his food? It is almost entirely sent out of the system in the liquid manures. On farms where clover is grown far more nitrogen is brought to the farm than the ox carries away. Therefore the chief drain upon such farms is in lime and phosphoric acid. Cor. Rural New Yorker.

Bean Anthracnose, or Spuiting.

For bean anthracnose, causing an shabby spotting of the pods, look for a fungus on the pods. It is a very common disease, and is caused by a fungus which enters the pods through the leaves. It is a very common disease, and is caused by a fungus which enters the pods through the leaves.

MALTESE MILK GOAT.

Another Candidate For a Boom in Animal Industries.

Spanish Maltese goats' milk is superior to that of the ordinary cow for general domestic purposes. Used with coffee it is delicious, giving that beverage a rich, creamy appearance, while a few drops in a cup of tea are equivalent to more than a teaspoonful of ordinary cream. When used for cakes or puddings its superiority is quickly apparent, both to the sight and taste, imparting a rich yellow color to these articles when cooked and thereby acting economically by lessening the number of eggs requisite for them. Many persons are impressed with the belief that goats' milk is possessed of a peculiar flavor. The impression is an entirely erroneous one. This milk resembles cows' milk both in taste and color, the only difference being that it is richer, thicker and slightly sweeter, containing, as it does, a larger percentage of cream and sugar and a less percentage of water.

When not confined the Spanish-Maltese goat in its eating habits is much like the deer, its diet being principally choice buds, twigs, leaves and undergrowth. Its meat, therefore, bears a close resemblance both in taste and color to deer flesh or venison. The grain is dark and closer than either mutton or Angora goat meat. No meat is sweeter, healthier, more tender or palatable. It is more delicious in flavor than deer venison.

At present prices the long haired Maltese skins are worth from 75 cents to $1 per pound for trimmings, rugs, imitation bear skins and other purposes, while the short haired are worth from 25 to 40 cents per pound to tanners, who use them for making the celebrated "ricel kid," a quality and class of leather rivaling the French kind both in beauty and durability, which, of course, greatly enhances the value of these skins.

Farm, Field and Fireside quotes a west Texas correspondent to the foregoing effect.

Government Soil Surveying.

The United States bureau of soils maintained fifteen soil parties in the field during last year, the areas covered being as follows:

Perry county, Ala.; Yuma area, Arizona; Stuttgart area, Arkansas; Imperial area, California; Los Angeles area, California; Arkansas valley area, Colorado; Gadsden county, Fla.; Lewiston area, Idaho; Clay county, Ill.; Clinton county, Ill.; St. Clair county, Ill.; Tazewell county, Ill.; Posey county, Ind.; Dubuque area, Iowa; Wichita area, Kansas; Union county, Ky.; Smokey area, Mississippi; Howell county, Mo.; Billings area, Montana; Trenton area, N. J.; Michiana area, New York; Lyons area, New York; Hickory area, North Carolina; Pamlico area, North Carolina; Mount Mitchell area, North Carolina; Grand Forks area, North Dakota; Columbus area, Ohio; Toledo area, Ohio; Arevalo to Ponce, Porto Rico; Abbeville area, South Carolina; Darlington county, S. C.; Brazoria area, Texas; Vernon area, Texas; Alburne area, Virginia; Wallawalla area, Washington; Jamesville area, Wisconsin. During the current year the number of soil survey parties has been increased to twenty, which it is expected will make surveys of about fifty areas in thirty-two states and territories.

What There Is in Cultivation.

We must keep in mind the fact that when corn is a foot high the roots fill the soil between the rows, and to cut them off checks the growth. Cultivation after that time should always be shallow. Have the soil loose so that rains will run in instead of off and break up the crust as soon as it is dry enough to work, as this will check wasteful evaporation from the surface. A farmer with whom I was acquainted incurred the wrath of his hired man by having run the cultivator again and again through the corn during a severe drought, while the neighbors were resting on their oars waiting for rain to come. "What, run that thing through the corn again? You might as well run it in the big road." "Well, I guess we'll work the corn a little more, but—" He had the only crop of corn in that section of country. When in doubt whether you have cultivated the corn enough it will always pay to work it a "little more."—Cor. Ohio Farmer.

What Forestry Is.

Forestry is the preservation of forests by wise use. It does not mean the abbreviation of that use. It means making the forest useful not only to the settler, the rancher, the miner, the man who lives in the immediate neighborhood, but indirectly to the man who lives hundreds of miles off.—President Roosevelt.

How Many Plants in a Hill.

One strong watermelon plant in a hill is better than two or more. Leave two cantaloupe plants in each hill. Thin out surplus ones after the leaves become rough.

THE GRANGE

Conducted by J. W. DARROW,
Press Correspondent New York State Grange

SOME POINTS OF PRACTICE.

Authoritative Information on Many Questions.

The following answers to questions by the master of the Michigan state grange, Hon. George B. Horton, are of general interest:

Q.—How often should a grange meet?
A.—The constitution says: "Subordinate granges shall meet at least once each month and may hold intermediate meetings." Experience proves that meetings should be held at least monthly to meet all demands upon the grange in carrying on its several lines of important work.

Q.—Are the open meetings desirable?
A.—The grange is established as a closed session organization for the benefit of its paying members. So called open meetings may be held with profit occasionally, say once a year. On such occasions the grange should be shown at its best.

Q.—In holding open meetings should invitations be given in general?
A.—For the success and benefit to be derived from such meetings each member should be given the privilege of inviting such neighbors and friends as are eligible to membership and who would make desirable members. There are but small chances for good from a general public meeting.

Q.—Should the rejecting of a candidate be discussed by the members?
A.—Except in very extreme cases no good can come from discussing beforehand the rejection of a candidate, and after the event it is positively irritating and wrong. All such matters should rest with the conscience of each individual member.

Q.—Can a master give the annual word to a visiting member?
A.—No. Each member must receive the word from the master of the grange to which he belongs.

Q.—Can first and second degrees be conferred on one candidate and the third and fourth on another candidate all in the same evening?
A.—Yes. The constitution says that "No grange shall confer more than two degrees on the same person at the same meeting." It is considered that the less of two degrees are all that the candidate can retain sufficiently to proceed intelligently, and if the grange performs its work properly it is all that should be undertaken for the good of the order.

Q.—What should the minutes be approved?
A.—The ritual provides that the minutes or record of a meeting shall be approved at the close of the meeting when they were enacted. The reading of records at a subsequent meeting is for the information of members only.

Q.—Should the worthy master sign the minutes?
A.—There is nothing in grange law which requires the signature of the master to the record of a meeting.

Q.—When the assistants are taking up the word shall the annual or degree word be given first?
A.—It is required that the annual word be given first, then followed by the fourth degree word.

Q.—Has a grange the right to elect a new officer to fill a vacancy where a resignation has not been made?
A.—Yes. For the grange can declare a vacancy when an officer is delinquent in duty. Any officer, from whatever cause, should not be permitted to be a stumbling block to the progress of the grange. Punctual officers and regular meetings are essential to grange success.

Q.—In clothing officers is it permissible to vote to instruct the secretary to cast the vote of the grange for a certain member for a certain office?
A.—Election by ballot in the grange has reference to a free, untrammelled expression of preference by each individual member. To instruct the secretary to act for the whole body is not in line with this just principle and should not be allowed.

Q.—Should an applicant come to the grange meeting at which his application is to be balloted upon?
A.—While an applicant can be elected and have the first degree conferred upon him at the same meeting it should not be encouraged or practiced except in extreme cases to concentrate several candidates and thus save work to the grange. With the applicant in waiting at the grange hall it would be very embarrassing in case of rejection. There is generally time enough to wait until results are known.

Q.—Shall the worthy master or lecturer be addressed when rising to speak during the lecture hour?
A.—The worthy master.

Q.—In the introductory work has an officer the right to use any language not given in the manual?
A.—The ritual is very complete within itself, and it is not in good taste to use outside language. There is no law, however, against it, providing the ritual is not abridged or changed.

Q.—When an incorporated grange becomes dead, what disposal can be made of the grange property?
A.—Grange property may include a hall. A.—The grange thus being a business body can proceed legally to close out its real and personal property for the benefit of outstanding indebtedness or other disposition of the proceeds, but state grange law provides that if it appears that a few members are acting in a way to purposely wreck the grange for the property the state grange may take possession and hold it in trust for such time when the grange may desire to work again.

Q.—What redress has the state grange when a subordinate grange persists in receiving new members for a less fee than stated in the bylaws?
A.—If a subordinate grange is working in violation of the bylaws, Article XVII of the bylaws of the national grange makes it the duty of the master of the state grange to suspend the charter of such offending grange.

Q.—Does a Pomona grange send any of the initiation fee away?
A.—Pomona granges have full benefit of all fees and dues collected.

Systematic Grange Work.

"There is no genius like the genius of labor. There is no reward like that which comes to energy, system, perseverance." The great Napoleon never uttered a greater truth than that, and the grange which would accomplish results and become a real help to the members must be systematic and persistent in its work. The grange which has one big feast at the beginning of the year, at which the members come to pay their dues, and which lays dormant the balance of the year might as well be out of commission so far as practical help to its members is concerned. It is the regular, systematic work which counts for real good in the grange as elsewhere.

The woman's work committee of the New York state grange has issued a series of twelve leaflets of four pages each on "Child Culture Studies." Sixty thousand leaflets were printed for use in the subordinate granges.

In Harrisville township, in Michigan there is a school building which is occupied by the public school, a church congregation and the grange. The up-story is used by the church and the grange.

ON BIGAMY CHARGE.

P. K. & Y. Motorman Placed Under Arrest This Noon.

Henry C. Buzzell, a motorman employed on the P. K. & Y. street railway, who resides in this city, was arrested this noon, charged with bigamy.

This forenoon, Deputy Sheriff George Athorne of Lewiston, Me., arrived here and asked for assistance from the local police in finding Buzzell, who, he said, had left his crippled wife in Lewiston and had come here.

With Assistant Marshal Hurley he found Buzzell living with another woman at the West end.

A search of the marriage records at the city clerk's office showed that Henry E. Buzzell of Kittery Point, aged twenty-six years, and Valla Laura Mace, aged twenty-two, of this city, were married on April 11 last, by City Clerk W. E. Peirce.

Buzzell was taken back to Lewiston on the 2:35 train this afternoon. It is probable that he may have to be brought back, for the crime was really committed here.

SCHOONER ASHORE.

The Caviare Lands On Foss Beach, But Is Floated.

The fishing schooner Caviare, hailing from Gloucester, went ashore this morning on the western ledges of Foss Beach.

The craft struck about four o'clock and the blowing of the horn by the crew called the attention of the residents at Concord Point.

Captain Wells of the Wallis Sands life saving station secured a volunteer crew and went out to the vessel.

They found her with her bow well up on the ledge, but riding easy and in no danger.

H. A. Yeaton of this city was telephoned to and he sent down the tug Piscataqua, Capt. Perkins.

The tug reached the schooner about half-past eight o'clock, but was not needed as the schooner had floated with the flood tide.

The crew report that they were trying to make this harbor, but in the dense fog which prevailed they got off the course.

There was but little sea and no wind, otherwise the schooner would not have fared as well as she did.

ROBBED A NEWSBOY.

Luke Kilmartin Arrested For Stealing Newspapers This Morning.

Luke Kilmartin was arrested this morning, for the larceny of an umbrella and some papers from a Chronicle newsboy.

The lad placed his bundle of papers, with his umbrella, on Paul's corner, while he went up Bow street, and he saw Kilmartin take the umbrella and some papers and sneak off.

A police officer was notified and Kilmartin was arrested and the property recovered.

Kilmartin was arraigned before Judge Emery, in the latter's office this forenoon. He was charged with the larceny of a copy of the Portsmouth Daily Chronicle.

He was adjudged guilty and fined seven dollars and costs of $6.13. He will work it out in jail.

SEEDS ARE HIGH.

Uncommon Demand For Them Advances the Price.

The price of all seed for vegetables has advanced nearly a hundred per cent and the seed stores have had hard work to get the seed, even at the advanced rate. S. A. Schurman and Son of Market street, who probably handle more seeds than any other firm, state that they have difficulty in supplying the demand of the farmers this year.

About all the farmers have had to plant the second time and this has created a shortage.

Beans are particularly hard to get and at the present time the whole-salers in Boston have but one brand. Corn has taken a big jump and some kinds are quoted as high as twenty-five dollars a bushel.

The seed men claim that the price next year will be even higher.

"BEST IN LEAGUE."

What Manager Murray Says Of Walter Woods As Third Baseman.

Walter Woods has developed into the fastest third baseman in the Eastern league. None of the others are within hailing distance of him.

In the last twenty-two games, the Portsmouth boy has made only one error, and that not a bad one.

When Walter joined the Jersey City team this year, it was Manager Murray's intention to use him in the box and the outfield, alternately.

Griffen, the regular third baseman, broke a hand in one of the earliest games of the season, however, and Murray put Walter on third, for a try out.

It has resulted in Walter's becoming a permanent fixture in that position for the Jerseys.

Murray's high opinion of the young man is shown by the deal just closed whereby Griffen, who is once more in playing form, goes to Baltimore instead of returning to his old place on the Jerseys.

Manager Murray, in explaining Griffen's transfer to Baltimore, told the Jersey City Evening Journal that Woods' brilliant record at third made it impossible for him to reinstate Griffen, as Woods' game had been the best shown by any Eastern league third baseman this season.

"I would not take Woods from third," said Manager Murray, "even to substitute Jimmy Collins on the bag which shows just what I think of Woods' game there."

Baltimore was badly off for a third baseman and as their offer to Jersey City was a substantial one there was no other alternative than to let Griffen go.

In securing the former Jersey City player Baltimore has secured one of the best third basemen, with the exception of Woods, there is on the circuit.

The Portsmouth boy is also showing up strongly at the bat, rapping out safe hits in about every game.

GREAT IMPROVEMENT.

Sidewalk Conditions Much Better Under New Police Rules.

The new police order to keep people moving on Congress and Market streets is working well, also the one forbidding spitting on the sidewalks.

The patrolmen have done their duty faithfully, not discriminating in favor of anybody, but sending all loiterers along.

The old curbstone parties which used to be held all along Congress street, especially on the Vaughan and Market street corners, have been broken up effectually and ladies can now go by without fear of insult.

As for spitting, the men have taken warning and are now very careful not to come within the law.

The result is seen in the cleaner condition of the pavements, especially in the downtown district, which used to be positively filthy at times.

This is no longer the case. The officers have not had to make any arrests in connection with the new orders, which speaks well for the intelligence of the community.

FLAG DAY EXERCISES.

Birth of the Stars and Stripes to Be Observed at Haven School.

At the Haven school, Flag day will be observed by the pupils of the different grades.

In Miss Rothwell's room the program will consist of the flag salute, songs, and readings by the pupils, with the reading of "The History of the Flag" by the teacher. These exercises are always very interesting and this year's program will be up to the usual standard, as much time is always given to preparations.

HIT BY TROLLEY CAR.

The committee on a firemen's Memorial day—consisting of the board of engineers and the captains of each company of the department—have made their report to the general committee. That divine has accepted and the services will be held in the Universalist church.

This service will be made an annual event.

John Hallam, 11 Bartlett street, second class.

James G. Ward, 11 McDonough street, second class.

CROSSED WIRES DID IT.

Crossed wires on Porter street set the fire alarm going about three o'clock this morning and woke up nearly every man, woman and child in the city. Both the bell and the whistle sounded intermittently for a few minutes and then the latter settled down to work and blew forty-two times without stopping.

People who tried to count the box must have got badly mixed.

"TEN BARROOMS IN ONE NIGHT."

As customers are not allowed to sit down in a saloon and sip their beer, now they gulp down a schooner and then go out upon the sidewalk and stand contemplating what saloon to visit next. Instead of each consumer having a favorite tapster, they have a dozen. It is no longer "ten nights in a barroom," but ten barrooms in one night.

HARRINGTON—ELWOOD.

Street Commissioner Hett has a gang of men at work on Maplewood avenue between the depot and Raynes avenue. The hill is being cut down about two feet, something that has been much needed.

NOT SLEEPING.

Ancient Quiet Of Noble's Island Is At Last Disturbed.

Within the last few weeks Noble's Island, a part of the city for many years very quiet, seems to have been hit by a business boom and at present is a very busy place. The saw mill set up by Major David Urch has commenced operations and a large crew of men is at work unloading and handling the timber from the navy yard which arrives each day by water. A large force of carpenters and bridge builders is also doing work for the Boston and Maine railroad and a busy force is soaking lumber at the kyanizing works for Otis Allen and Son of Lowell, Mass.

Even if only a few vessels are now discharged at the old Eastern wharf, compared with the number once handled there, this section of the city is by no means sleeping.

THIRTEEN CANDIDATES.

Large Class Initiated Into Strawberry Bank Grange.

Thirteen candidates were initiated into Strawberry Bank grange at the meeting held on Thursday evening. Following the degree work, the question, "Do we properly observe our holidays?" was discussed by Mrs. William Dunbar, Mrs. Susan Townsend, Mrs. Lottie Paterson and Miss Millie Merrill.

This evening the local grange will go to Rye in a special car and will present the comedy, "Old Maid's Wooing."
